

CYBERSECURITY IT HEALTH CHECKS

citrix

OVERVIEW

Can you be sure that your business applications are being assessed appropriately? Are you confident that your Citrix platform is stable? Will your Citrix platform stand up to the demands of your organization? When was the last time you had your environment independently reviewed?

Why should your organization have a Citrix Health Check done? IntraSystems Citrix Health Check reviews your environment for configurations that might cause future problems, not necessarily existing problems. IntraSystems focuses on availability, security, manageability, user experience, performance, and reliability. As Citrix infrastructures become more business critical, the demand for availability and reliability becomes paramount. IntraSystems' Citrix Health Check ensures that your Citrix solution is accessing your applications and data securely while maintaining maximum resilience.

You have invested in your Citrix solution to provide a service for your organization. Whether you have implemented one or several applications, left untouched, your environment is open to misconfigurations, instability, process deviation, and security exploitations.

Don't wait until your infrastructure does not perform as required. Environments that seem to be working well may have problems that often appear once access to an application is needed. More often than not, Citrix platforms are left to operate quietly in the background and reviewed only when a new application is required to be accessed.
